HINO TRUCKS ANNOUNCES GROUND BREAKING TRANSMISSION WARRANTY

Novi, Michigan – Hino Trucks is taking ownership value to new heights with an unprecedented move in warranty. Effective immediately, 2020 model year Allison transmission equipped Hino's include a 5-year unlimited mile transmission warranty. This new standard gives customers up to two additional years of coverage and does away with mileage limits at no additional cost to customers. All Allison transmissions offered by Hino Trucks are included as well as all vocation applications. This is simply the best base transmission warranty in the industry that extends to Class 6-8 and includes Hino models 238, 258, 268, 338 and the all-new Hino XL Series.

Considering Hino Trucks unmatched standard 5-year engine warranty, emissions warranty, connected vehicle services - Hino Insight Remote Diagnostics and Case Management, and newly introduced Allison Transmission warranty, the company is delivering the most supported trucks in the industry with maximum return on investment through residual value. "We continuously strive to deliver the lowest cost of ownership for our customers, period," said Hino Trucks' Sr. Vice President of Customer Experience, Glenn Ellis, who continued, "With the durability and reliability of our proprietary engines and mated Allison Transmissions it has made it possible to extend to five years of coverage at no charge to our customers."

Allison transmissions are standard on all conventional Hino trucks including the recently launched XL Series. "We are proud to partner with Hino in offering this extended transmission coverage including our FuelSense 2.0 package. The commitment to quality and workmanship at Allison enables us to offer this extension and further enhances our customers' confidence in the reliability and durability of Allison Transmission products. We value our relationship with Hino and are pleased to be the standard transmission offered on Hino vehicles in North America," said Rohan Barua, Allison Transmission Vice President of OEM Sales.
